MOP students impart skills

Aligned to their goal of creating socially responsible citizens, the MOP Vaishnav College for Women on Saturday launched 'Thozhil Seiyyalam Thozhi', a year-long project aimed at teaching entrepreneurship skills to rural women.

Under the programme, students of the college will conduct skill-training workshops in different villages in Tamil Nadu to enable economic independence and empowerment of rural women.The first session was conducted by the students of the Department of Business Administration at SKDJ Higher Secondary School in Tiruverkadu.

Nearly 100 women participated and learned different skill-based works including incense stick-making using cow dung, pot and diya painting, quilling and tassle jewellery making, hairstyle and make-up, cooking without fire, quilled envelope, candle and paper bag making. The training material kits were provided at the venue.

"Every year, we have been coming up with such initiatives. Last year, it was Pagir to promote a plastic-free environment. Doing the skill-imparting project in one school is only a small step. We want to take it to all the villages and empower every woman seeking economic independence," said Lalitha Balakrishnan, principal, MOP College for Women.

The skills have been chosen in such a way that not much investment is required. For about an investment of ₹500, the women would be earning a profit of ₹200 per day, explained the students imparting training.

"Despite having a need for money, I am unable to work because I have to take care of two kids at home and my education qualification too is not great. These kind of skills will help us earn from home while taking care of the family. I want to learn paper bag making because given the plastic ban, the demand will be more. In our village, we don't have much alternatives to plastic," said 39-year-old Maheshwari Dhanasekharan from Thiruverkadu.

The participants were issued certificates after completion of the workshop.

The stage is set

It is 6 pm. A group of six girls appear from nowhere on the busy walkway of the Thirumangalam metro station, tying their red shawls tight on their waists. Two of them clap their hands and sing "vandhen iranga paarunga". Soon, a group of passengers gather. If you find these performers at Besant Nagar beach or Central railway station, do not be surprised. The girls, students of MOP Vaishnav College for Women, have been performing at different venues for the past week, organised by the Department of Communication and staged by the students of Department of Sociology in collaboration with the CMRL's Metro Music Edit series. A prelude to the 'Know Your Rights' campaign conducted with UNICEF in January, the five-minute play discusses child rights, like right to development, right to participation, right to protection. "Education is the most important one we have identified," says Sujatha, a first-year student of BA Sociology.

At Thirumangalam, most passengers waittill the end. Radha, a teacher, goes up to the team, and requests them perform in the school where she works. "Such mediums work," she says.
